INVESTMENT IN LOCALLY CONTROLLED FORESTRY

Many forested landscapes are inhabited by rights-holders who seek genuine business partnerships to manage their natural resources, not patronage schemes. Investing in locally controlled forestry is about achieving acceptable returns while putting local people ‘in the driving seat’, developing and implementing projects – and often, but not necessarily, working within them.

Tell us in 140 characters (25 words) or less what you’re doing to support investment in locally-controlled forests:
